

METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR DATA STORAGE AND RETRIEVAL

5

ABSTRACT

A system, method, apparatus, and computer program code for data storage and retrieval. According to some embodiments, data storage pursuant to the present invention includes receiving document information associated with a document to be stored. A pending record containing the document information is generated. The document information is verified, and an active record is generated if the verifying is successful.